Bringing the arts to life in Milton Keynes

'We create imaginative collaborations between artists and communities to share with audiences in Milton Keynes and beyond.'

Shining... from a load of old rubbish!

'I enjoyed making my Rooster because you can create a work of art from recycling a load of old rubbish! I enjoyed using tools such as the glue gun, an electric screwdriver and the drill – and working with the artist. I decided to do a farmyard theme because I was born in the year of the Rooster. If the workshop was on again, I'd try and persuade my parents to let me go and make another sculpture.'

Richard Suchy, young city sculptor

Bug lanterns made from paper and sculptures made from rubbish were some of the creations on display at Inter-Action MK, Peartree Bridge in January 2008 – conjured up by the city's youngsters during free workshops with the theme SHINE! Five artists worked with the youngsters at Inter-Action MK workshops in Tinkers Bridge, Coffee Hall and Peartree Bridge:

'It's always exciting working with new and diverse artists, and this project, working across local communities, allows young people to be creative and imaginative. The collaboration with 'artworks mk' (www.artworks-mk.co.uk) enables us to provide more opportunities to a wider community.'
