

Young Heritage Hunters

My Milton Keynes

Beanhill

Moorlands Community Centre in Beanhill

The Tin Man sculpture

Outside view of Beanhill Social Club, 1980s

The park where the Tin Man is located

Beanhill is a wonderful estate because I live there. It has lots of parks and places to hang around. We have our own little shops to go buy accessories or sweets and drinks we also have a school and nursery. We also have lots of meeting places and areas for younger children to come and play.

Beanhill is split into six areas: five places full of bungalows and parks, the other place has two storey houses.

I have lived in Beanhill for 11 years now. There is a park called 'Tin Man' where there is a statue of a silver man that is very old. The park has a cage so that people can play football. There are also some swings, a slide and a see-saw. The 'Tin Man' park has become less popular since the opening of the new 'Sunshine Park' where there is more for younger children to play on.

I live on Wastel which is close to 'Tin Man' park. You can also go to any of the tiny parks around Beanhill and they are fun to go to.

By Dean